Organizational Structure for OSSP database

The Rules of Routing
1. Units are units, and people are people. People (individuals) are always added as USERS.
2. A unit cannot be a child of itself.
3. When there are discrepancies between what's on a web page and what's in PDF, favor the PDF.
4. When a person is added to a unit, they should be added to the lowest possible unit (e.g., JMS) and not that unit's parents (COAS or Academic Affairs, for example).
5. All people defined in the org chart are added to the system, but not all are 'routable.' We determine who can receive messages based on a new field that will be added to the OSSP_UNITS_USERS table called 'ROUTABLE.' This means that the user will receive a notification and get access to the question if a message is routed to the unit to which they belong.
